The Raku firing event at North Warren Regional was a thrilling experience for students. Raku firing is a Japanese pottery technique where pieces are removed from the kiln while still red-hot and placed in a reduction chamber, creating unique and unpredictable glaze effects. Students had a blast participating, getting hands-on with the process, and witnessing the magical transformations of their creations. The event sparked creativity and excitement among the students, making it a memorable and enjoyable experience for everyone involved. – Ms. Wyker
